

Reflections of Me

I was only trying to find myself
Concealed by the thought that to succeed was something else
We knowingly dove into realms of the unknown
And found that life is more than what you own

As I became more awake things looked so absurd
And everywhere I looked I saw and felt all their hurt
But now my eyes can finally see They're aware there's no their It's 'all reflections of me

(All the fear you have) take that fear and hide it all away (All that holds you back) keep on running, don't you let it hold you back (Labels that you give) don't you let them tell you what to think (Quiet your mind and live)
quiet your mind and live

All agreements made Letting passion fade
Far too blind to see Reflections of me"